Peter, can we do best bets for snapshot2017.epa.gov? I didn't like my query for climate change results.

Subject: Snapshot result template ready

There's a new template, snapshot.ftl, available for review. I modified <https://snapshot.epa.gov/index.html> to use it. If it get's unmodified, you can test it here <https://aggie.rtpnc.epa.gov:8443/epasearch/snapshot.html>. All of the html pages are indexed. The PDF pages will get indexed when we fine tune the rewrite rule.

Here are the changes to the snapshot home page, which will have to be replicated to all html pages.

1. Changed the placeholder in the search box to "Search 2017 Snapshot" from "Search EPA.gov"
2. Changed the result template value in the search form to snapshot.ftl from 2col.ftl
3. Added a collection override

<input type="hidden" name="site" value="snapshot" />
```

4. Temporarily changed to action to aggie for testing. This won't be replicated, of course.

Here are the changes to the template

1. Switched the alert JavaScript to use snapshot version, so it gets the same red alert line at the top.
2. Removed the dynamic navigation sidebar
3. Removed Best Bets, which return non-snapshot URLs
4. Added " in the 2017 Snapshot collection" to the results legend.
5. Removed the link to Advanced Search. We can restore this if we want to take time to make <https://snapshot.epa.gov/home/advanced-search.html> into snapshot advanced search, which isn't that hard.
6. Removed "Searches related to ..." at the bottom. This can be made to show related searches with snapshot, if we want to spend the time passing the right arguments to the google appliance.
